

Cameron University

Department of Music

Lawton, Oklahoma

MISSION STATEMENT

The Cameron University Department of Music supports the university's mission in a number of ways. The Department of Music has a three-fold mission of service to the music major, service to the non-music major (including the music minor), and service to the community. The Cameron University Music Department 's programs, goals and objectives emphasize the acquisition of music skills, knowledge, values, and professional attitudes. The Music Department's goals are: to prepare music majors for professional careers as either music educators or music performers; to provide non-music majors with an opportunity to become acquainted with or improve their music skills or knowledge in music; and to serve the area community with opportunities for music performance, departmental concert offerings, or improvement in the community member's own musical skills. The Music Department's objectives are: the music student will demonstrate a basic understanding of general principles of music and professional musicianship; the music student will demonstrate a basic performance competence in the selected medium of music performance; and during their undergraduate matriculation, music students will demonstrate adequate preparation for potential success.
