

Bank Statement Frequently Asked Questions

What makes a document official?

A document is considered official if it comes from an original source and is not opened prior to arriving at Cameron University. Stamped and sealed envelopes that we receive directly from your school, a credential evaluation company, test center, financial institution, or bank are considered official. Documents emailed from the original source's email account with administrator's name sending the email may also be acceptable.

We do NOT consider documents sent directly from the student official or via email from the student official documents.

What are the required financial statements?

Cameron University requires financial statement(s) that meet governmental regulations.

United States Citizenship and Immigration Services requires universities to certify international students have sufficient funding to pursue a course of study. Cameron University therefore requires international students to present documentation of adequate liquid financial resources to cover all expenses at the university their first year. The financial statement(s) must be dated within 6 months of the first term they will attend. The financial statement(s) must list balance(s) of financial resources held over a span of six months. The statements must be officially certified by the bank. That requires financial statements stamped by the financial institution or signed by a bank official and mailed or emailed by the bank to us. Attached is a template of a bank statement with ending monthly balance. Six such bank statements are sufficient to meet the requirement. A bank statement listing balance(s) of account(s) over the course of six months is also sufficient.

Acceptable sources of financial resources are:

- Checking or savings account
- CDs with a maturity date prior to the date of the student's admission
- Money market account
- Scholarships through the university or home government
- Fellowship
- Educational loans

Please note that these documents should be in English.

Unacceptable sources of financial resources are:

- Stocks and bonds
- Mutual funds
- Business bank account
- Statement of earned salary
- Tax returns
- Property ownership
